THE WISCONSIN IDEA

This year's theme is encompassed in "The Wisconsin Idea" ... One of the longest and deepest traditions surrounding the University of Wisconsin, the Wisconsin Idea signifies a general principle: that education should influence people's lives beyond the boundaries of the classroom.

Central to the core mission of the University of Wisconsin—Madison is our commitment to the Wisconsin Idea, which states that what we do here at the University should enhance the lives of every person in the State of Wisconsin, as well as around the nation and the world. The evidence of this commitment lies in our many ongoing initiatives: direct and tangible actions that are aimed at identifying and addressing many of the state's and the world's most urgent and complex problems.

Guided by the commitment to public service, we are active participants in the Madison area. Our contributions make Wisconsin financially stronger and more competitive across all industries. The UW is home to many of today's top thinkers, researchers, and leaders, who are frequently sought out to help with the nation's emerging challenges.

The University of Wisconsin—Madison occupies the ancestral home of the Ho-Chunk Nation and acknowledges the circumstances that lead to their forced removal and honors the Ho-Chunk Nation's history of resistance and resilience. UW Madison respects the inherent sovereignty of the

Ho-Chunk Nation, along with the eleven other First Nations of Wisconsin
